City Hears Stem, Votes Dn'town Sum

The Cameron City Council last Thursday approved a resolution to sign a contract with Slough Construction Co., of Temple, for the 100-block City paving program and budgeted $500 for partial purchase of downtown Christmas decorations.

Council action on officially employing Slough Construction Co. followed a presentation in behalf of Downing Construction Co. of Waco by Wiley Stem Jr., spokesman for the firm's attorneys and former Waco city attorney.

He had asked the Council, which it did, to delay approving previous Council minutes until he spoke. The minutes of July 12 contained notes on unanimously voting Slough Construction Co. the contractor though Downing was low bidder by about $970. Slough's bid was $204,651.12 and Downing's was $203,679.51.

In other action, the Council:

ONE—Approved budgeting the $500 for Christmas decorations after Porter Young, in behalf of a Cameron Chamber committee, asked Council consideration for $889 or one-third of $2,665 for 26 new strands of overhead street decoration. Downtown merchants have pledged $1100 thus far, the Chamber $300 to $500 and civic clubs additional amounts.

Appearing with Young were Chamber President John Henderson Jr., Forrest Sapp, Bill Storey and Jerome Friesenhahn.

TWO—Approved a 1967 report by the City Equalization Board which adjourned June 30 after reviewing some 2400 property renditions. (See story, this page.)

THREE—Approved a one-year agreement with the County for 50 cents per mile and $10 an hour for city trucks used in all types of County fires, up to an annual sum of $800.

The County Commission July 26 voted for the proposition with Adolph Gresak, Buckholts precinct commissioner, voting against the $800 figure. He had agreed to a $650 figure first proposed by the County. Voting for the agreement were Judge O. B. Harden, and Commissioners Lavert McKinney and Albert Timmerman.

FOUR—The Council tabled until October 1 the final reading of an ordinance establishing rates and regulations for taxi cabs in Cameron.

Stem asked the basis, "without casting any reflection," he said, for selecting the Slough bid over his client's, Downing.

Councilman Lawrence Zolt said he voted for Slough because in questioning Mr. Downing the night of awarding the bid, he felt that he (Downing) was unable to satisfy his concern about the assessment and loan requirements of the project.

Stem said the specifications only asked for the "lowest responsible bid." He said the Council need not concern itself about the project as long as a bidding contractor made his bid bond. "It was the responsibility of the contractor to meet obligations of the contract."

Council two weeks ago voted 4-1 to grant Slough Construction Co. the bid.

Stem said if consideration was given a $1,500 fee to a Mr. Anderlitch, of Texas Securities, San Antonio, it should have been in the bid specifications.

He said he realized the Council had wide discretion in granting bids, but in his opinion "it was not fair to Downing or to taxpayers."

"I think you made a mistake," he said, later saying: "Where are you going to draw the line?"

Both contractors were questioned separately, by their own agreement, the day the bid was awarded, officials noted.

A letter to the Council and Mayor Wilson after the letting took issue with the separate questioning of the contractors, as well as the low bid question, opined "a violation of the City Charter by attorneys for Downing."

City Atty. Charles C. Smith Jr. took exception to a reference in that letter which said the separate questioning was a violation of the new "Open Meetings" law, just passed by the Texas Legislature. He specifically said it was an open meeting in the context of the law.

Mayor Wilson said he had decided Slough was the best qualified because of previous experience and recommended that the bid go to Slough.

Hickman said he wondered why the contractor had asked the City to draw a list of property owners. An attorney said that was routine.

Councilman Zolt also said he was concerned that Downing Construction did not have a plan or could not state starting dates for hearings, and other required work before the project begins.

Stem and Cameron attorneys Don G. Humble and Ed Magre left the meeting after Stem's talk. And the Council voted approval of the previous minutes which contained the unanimous vote count of 4-0 for letting the bid to Slough Construction. Motion was by Zolt, seconded by Hickman and passed 4-0. Councilman R. W. Wells was on vacation.

A letter from the City advised Downing Construction of the Council's decision.

NEW MILBUR WELL

Two Wildcats Underway

By Lloyd Albertson

Milam County had two new wildcats scheduled and another wildcat, located several miles southeast of Cameron, was being completed as a Navarro test during the week's oil drilling activities.

One of the new wildcats is set for the booming Milbur-North Milbur Field near the Burleson County line in South Milam. It will be drilled by the Houston Petroleum Company, a new operator in the field, and will be the No. 1 Garland A. Smith.

Location is on a 100 acre lease in James Shaw Survey, Luling Oil & Gas Company has acreage north of this lease and Ashland Oil & Refining Company offsets it on the west.

Permit depth for the Smith is 2,800 feet or the basal Wilcox. Milam's second scheduled wildcat last week will be located on the other side of the county 2½ miles northeast of Buckholts.

It will be an Edwards Lime test and permitted to 2,000 feet. A Bryan operator, Frank A. Krc Jr., will drill it on an 849 acre tract owned by W. E. Coufal in Jose Antonio de Pena Survey.

At last report this wildcat was waiting on rig to be moved in and operations started.

The wildcat being completed is located on the Bickett tract of land several miles southeast of Cameron and is in an area where several shallow wells were drilled about 10 years ago.

W. C. Pemberton and associates of Houston are the operators. Test was drilled by the Betchan Drilling Company of Milano. Pipe was being set on this wildcat at last report. Depth was 856 feet and in the Navarro.

Potential test figures were filed last week on two more wells in the Milbur Field. Luling Oil & Gas Company filed potential on its No. 1 Coldiron showing it pumped 8 barrels on perforations at 2,694-92 feet.

And the Huber Corp. and R. E. Smith filed potential of 65 barrels per day on perforations at 2,740-54 feet on its No. 4 H. H. Coffield Unit.

Need 108 Donors For Bloodmobile

North Milam Countians willing to donate a pint of blood to the Central Texas Blood Bank are being urged to go to the Bloodmobile at the Methodist Fellowship Hall Friday between 1 and 7 p.m.

An all-out effort to replenish the stock of blood at the Central Texas bank is being made locally, after falling short of the quota in the last Bloodmobile visit.

Quota per visit to Cameron is 71 pints of whole blood. Sister Aloysius, local blood program chairman, said because medical examinations find some donors unable to donate at this time and some blood donations may be used only for production of blood derivatives, an average of 96 donors are needed for the 71 pint quota. An additional 112 donors will be needed Friday to make up the 8 pint shortage from the last Bloodmobile visit.

Program workers said blood may be donated as often as every 8

IN DOWNTOWN CAMERON

Milam County HD Agent's Notes

By Christine Laws
Summertime need not be the time for your appetite and spirits to droop. Not when two of nature's best pick-me-ups, lemons and limes are around.

The tart, tingling taste of lemons and limes is just made for the hot summer days when something cool really hits the spot. You'll find the tang around your house will go for the snappy taste of drinks made from them.

And lemonade and limeade are so easy to prepare and serve attractively. No need to wait until the last minute either. Keep a jugful chilled for ready use in your refrigerator. Or perhaps in a more concentrated form, pour into an ice tray. Freeze, and presto, lemonade or limeade cubes. They will delight the children.

Appetizer Delight
For the next party try something different. Combine 3/4 cup of sugar and 3 cups water. Boil for 5 minutes and let cool. Add 1 cup grapefruit juice, 1/4 cup lemon juice and 1 1/2 cups lime juice. Stir until well blended, chill thoroughly, and you have a tempting drink.

Fruit Punch
Summer and parties go together and no party is complete without guest-pleasing punch. The next time you entertain, try fruit punch. For this you will need two small cans lemon juice and one 4-oz can pineapple juice.

Also, 2 1/2 lbs sugar made into syrup (use 2 1/2 cups water, 1 small bottle almond extract, food coloring, and 1 1/2 gallons water).

Boil 2 1/2 cups water and 2 1/2 lbs sugar to make a syrup. Chill. Combine fruit juices, extract, syrup, and iced water. Add coloring to give desired shade. What a hit it will make with your guests.

Lime Dressing
Here's an idea combining lime and a summer favorite, cantaloupe. Thaw concentrated lime juice. Whip 1/2 cup heavy cream and liquidified nonfat dried milk or evaporated milk until fluffy and firm. Add 1/4 cup (4 tablespoons) lime juice to whipped topping. 1 tablespoon at a time, whipping after each addition. Yield 3/4 cup. Serve atop a combo of chilled cantaloupe balls and chunks of fresh pears. Makes a delicious duet.

Lemon Cheese Pie
For a different slant on an old American favorite, lemon pie, try this creamy lemon cheese pie. You will need 1/4 cup fresh lemon juice, three 3-oz pkgs cream cheese, two beaten eggs and 1/4 cup sugar. For the topping you will need 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel, 1 tablespoon sugar, and 1 cup sour cream.

Mix lemon juice and cream cheese together. Add beaten eggs and sugar, beat until fluffy. Pour into vanilla wafer crust and bake at 350 degrees F for 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from oven and let cool for five minutes.

To prepare topping, mix lemon peel, sugar, and sour cream. Spread over pie. Return to oven and bake 10 minutes longer. Chill at least 5 hours before serving.

Watermelon Rind Pickles
Last week's article on melons listed a recipe for watermelon rind. But how many homemakers have ever made use of the watermelon rind? Why not try watermelon rind pickles, especially good with fried chicken.

Peel and remove all the green and pink portions from the rind of one large watermelon. Cut in 1 inch cubes and soak overnight in salt water in the refrigerator (1/4 cup of salt to 1 quart ice cold water). Drain and rinse in cold water. Cover with cold water and cook until fork tender, about 10 minutes. Drain and make a syrup of 8 cups sugar, 4 cups vinegar, and add 8 tsp whole cloves, 16 sticks cinnamon, and 1 tsp mustard seed. Tie spices in a cheese-cloth bag. Heat the syrup and spices to boiling and allow to set for 15 minutes. Add the drained watermelon rind and cook until clear and transparent. If desired, a few minutes before boiling time is up, add enough green or red food coloring to give desired color to the pickles. Let set overnight to plump up. Heat watermelon in syrup to boiling and pack boiling hot into sterilized jars and seal at once.

Process sealed jars in boiling water bath for 5 minutes. (Start to count processing time when water in canner returns to boiling). Remove jars and set upright, several inches apart to cool.

Agri-Business Tour...

Thirty-two Cameron businessmen toured four farms or agri-business operations in a Cameron Chamber survey trip last week.

Men who saw the realization of agri-business operations in the Cameron area must have been comparing those developments with the move for industrial development here.

Elm Creek Farm is an industrial complex, a dairy farm that automatically feeds and milks upward to 600 cows twice daily. The buildings and payroll, representing a unique operation in Texas, are considerable.

The same applies to the skill and technics shown in cotton and corn grown at the Joe Mueck farm, the Milam Grain installation and the new Salem Feed Lot.

Such is the result of a revolution in dairying, crops and cattle in agriculture. They have become agri-business, in the doing, operations which employ modern scientific or industrial technic.

Industry creates jobs, producing a commodity that, hopefully, sells well for more profit and more jobs. The Elm Creek Dairy, for example, produces milk under rigid controls, which sells in the unlimited demand of the Houston Milk Shed. They hope to expand production, and by that expansion, some employment.

Grain and pure farming require considerable commodities and either employ people seasonally, or a relative few the year 'round.

While businessmen in Cameron surely appreciate this investment and modern development, they are met with the proposition of developing Cameron in orderly growth.

The realization is that farming is now agri-business and that fuller employment means industrial payroll. It is elementary that Cameron, or no town of its size, can survive without payroll and employment, at least as we know it.

It is interesting that agriculture operations now take on the orientation and technic of industry. Both share the problems of increased production, quality control and efficiency at a profit. Most of all, they share an understanding of good management needs.

Those businessmen visiting Cameron agri-business centers certainly appreciate what is involved in today's competitive agri-business world since they are so deeply involved in the whole community development.

Dateline Austin...

Voter Registration Amendment Valid

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN

State Supreme Court has ruled that the constitutional amendment requiring annual voter registration in Texas is valid.

AFL-CIO challenged the amendment. They contended that voters did not get "fair notice" that the amendment provided for annual registration.

State labor officials pledged to take the issue to the highest federal court.

State Supreme Court agreed with ruling of the Third Court of Civil Appeals that the amendment -- approved by Texans last year -- to abolish the poll tax as a requirement for voting and substitute annual sign-up should stand. There was no opinion. Appellate judges had reversed the trial court finding.

Austin District Judge Herman Jones agreed that the full purpose of the amendment was not adequately described in the proposition on the ballot. It stated only that the poll tax would be knocked out as a voting requirement. Last April Court of Civil Appeals said it was unlikely any voter, in view of widespread publicity given the issue, failed to understand what he was voting on.

Roy Evans, Secretary-Treasurer of Texas AFL-CIO, said the State Supreme Court will be asked for a rehearing. If that is rejected, a hearing will be requested before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, Texas election machinery and voter registration for the big 1968 election year will proceed under annual sign-up law as amended this year.

All voters, including those who live in cities under 10,000 population, must register between October and January.

In other cases, the State Supreme Court: —Left standing lower court decisions refusing cash judgments to two parties to the collapse of Billie Sol Estes' fortunes. Case originated in Pecos District Court.

—Reversed Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals and sustaining district court in holding that 49 strikers against the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corporation in 1964 could draw unemployment benefits due to circumstances of their joblessness. (Strikers had offered to return to work.)

—Upheld Third Court of Civil Appeals' ruling that State Savings and Loan Commissioner was justified in denying a branch office application for downtown Houston of the Gibraltar Savings Association.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES

Oil and gas produced on federal land at Corpus Christi Naval Air Station are subject to state production and pipeline taxes (except for 16 2-3 percent payable as royalty to the U.S.). Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held.

In other opinions, Martin has concluded that:

—A $1,500,000 appropriation to construct protective devices at railroad grade crossings is constitutional.

—If a county commissioner is a director and stockholder in a bank desiring to receive bond issue funds the county commissioners court does not have authority to designate that bank as a county depository.

HIGHWAYS

As July began, the State Highway Department had $618,899,810 worth of highway construction under contract. During June, contractors were paid $35,802,146 for work completed.

In 1919, only $273,000 was spent for road construction.

WELFARE

An audit of the State Department of Public Welfare reveals that $461 million in federal and state money was used in Texas during the two years ending last August 31 on welfare programs.

Rate was $120 million last year, of which $168,620,302 was in direct grants to the needy aged, blind, children and disabled, plus $41,431,797 for medical care for the needy aged. While aid to dependent children and those who are permanently disabled continues to rise, training programs are reducing the amount of aid needed by blind persons.

Distribution of surplus commodities also is handled by this department. In two years, 45 million

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Some practical joker in town, apparently having read in The Cameron Herald last week that I wasn't in the market for tin cans and bottles wrapped in a newspaper and thrown in a ditch by the road near my Johnson grass farm out here, has now left a batch of tin cans and bottles in the same place, with a rolled-up page of a newspaper stuck in each one. He didn't get the point.

Anyway, I pulled the pages out one by one and put them together and found I had a complete newspaper except for the front page, which didn't matter as one day's riots seem about like another's. There are times when the most predictable thing in a paper is the front page.

Speaking of predicting, I found on page 14 of the can-and-bottle delivered paper (by the way, if the joker who did this will let me know his name, I have a few items I'll be glad to deposit on his front lawn in town to maintain a balance of trade) an item about the weather.

According to it, the odd weather we've had this summer such as unseasonably cool days and too wet in some places and too dry in others has been blamed by a weather bureau expert on the jet streams, the upper air wind patterns above 10,000 feet. One jet stream flows from Alaska and northwest Canada over the Great Lakes region and then toward the Northeast. The other comes in from the Gulf of Mexico, crosses the Southwest, and turns east over Kansas, he said.

The weather expert went on to say the jet streams explain this summer's weather, but when asked about how to explain the jet streams, he said "We don't know the full answers. They're never normal."

I have thought this over and I believe what he's saying is that he doesn't understand the weather either and that it too is never normal. I get very little satisfaction out of knowing that when I need a rain and it stays dry, the fault lies with a jet stream. This is like always putting the answer one step out of reach.

So far weather experts are like economic experts, they're a lot better at telling you what happened yesterday than what's going to happen tomorrow. You don't find many economics experts getting rich in the stock market or many weather experts getting rich in farming.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Shrapnel" From Tires

Speeding along a gravel road, a motorist drove over a little pile of loose stones. One of the stones squirted sideways, crashed through the windshield of an oncoming car, and injured the other driver.

After litigation, the first motorist was held liable for the mishap. The court said that, in view of his speed and the condition of the road, he should have foreseen the likelihood of hurling "shrapnel" from his tires.

The case illustrates an important principle: a motorist must be alert not only to the general danger of collisions but also to the special dangers that arise from the speed, weight, and make-up of the car.

Here is how legal liability resulted when a car became:

1) A Booby Trap—A man left his old jalopy, with gasoline still in the tank, on a vacant lot where children often played. One day a boy clashed two rocks together near the opening of the tank, causing a spark that set off an explosion. For the resulting injury to the boy, the car owner had to pay damages.

2) A Battering Ram—A man parked his automobile on a slope, pulling his brakes only half tight. In his absence the car began rolling downhill, and finally crashed through the plate glass window of a store. Here too the motorist was held responsible.

3) A Bone Crusher—Picking up a neighbor's small son, a motorist slammed the door shut without warning—and without giving the child enough time to get his hand out of the door's way. Result: broken bones, and legal liability imposed on the motorist.

4) Heart Stopper—Rounding a corner, a man drove straight at a woman pedestrian crossing the street. Although he did manage to stop just in time, the woman fell down in sheer panic, suffering painful injuries. Again, liability for the motorist. As one judge warned, in describing the rights of the pedestrian:

"His right-of-way is not to be measured in fractions of an inch nor tested by split seconds. He is entitled not to just as much space as his body, clothes and buttons require, but to as much as will afford him a safe passage. The pedestrian's heart, as well as his body, should be free from attack."

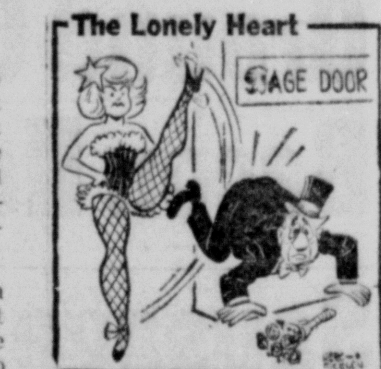

In short, today's automobile can play many roles in inflicting harm. The car owner bears a responsibility that is not only heavy but diversified as well. It is the law's way of facing up to the less pleasant realities of the automobile age.

MINNOWS NEED OXYGEN

Lack of oxygen often kills bait even in a live bait well. Insure keeping your bait alive by inserting an O-Tab or two in the well. These tabs, which can be purchased in most tackle stores, release oxygen in the water and last for several hours.

More Refinements....

As summer warms to fall, and football begins to command interest, Cameron enters a busy fall year.

Cameron industrial planning, civic improvements and other growth projects will gain momentum.

This will mean continued "citification", for lack of a better word, for Cameron, which has committed to growth and modernization for survival in the 1960's.

It will mean serious consideration of the import of upgrading standards throughout new physical development, following lines drawn by the City's recent passage of new codes for plumbing, wiring, building and general community maintenance. It will require following through.

The proposed downtown project implies a wide modernization of the whole community, not merely the area or areas considered in urban renewal or general modernization.

It will seem an imposition to some when the stress of "city standards" in such codification accompanies new construction and a more refined community, physically and mentally.

By most standards, Cameron or any town over 2,500 is considered urban.

Basic standards of state and federal statute where not already met, will be an integral part of Cameron's modernization.

What Others Say...

The Darkening Sky...

The coal and oil industries are leading a lobbying campaign on Capitol Hill to block passage of an effective bill to control air pollution.

"For far too long, some Government officials have tended to overemphasize regulation," Stephen F. Dunn, the president of the National Coal Association, told a Senate subcommittee the other day. "Technological solutions are a necessary prelude to regulation."

The truth is that much stronger regulation is needed just to put into effect what science and technology have already learned about the control of air pollution. As Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Gardner told the subcommittee earlier, "The nation is not even close to employing all the economically and technically feasible methods available for reducing discharges of pollution into the air."

The coal industry and its allies are stressing the need for additional "technological solutions" because they hope to substitute research for regulation.

The Air Quality Act of 1967, as proposed by President Johnson, would empower the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to establish national emission standards for industries which "are sources of substantial amounts of pollutants." Such industries include pulp and paper mills, oil refineries, iron and steel plants and the makers of acids, chemicals and sulfur.

The Secretary would also be empowered to establish air quality regions, each of which would be policed by a regional commission. These commissions and the Federal Government would have the power to issue a cease-and-desist order against a violator.

For the past dozen years, since Congress first timidly ventured into this field, the assumption has been that air pollution is a matter for the states and localities. But they have been reluctant to act because polluting industries can exert powerful political pressures. Moreover, since dirty air does not respect political boundaries, one community's ordinances are not enough to control pollution in a regional airshed.

Every year the sky darkens. The precious envelope of air supporting life on this planet becomes more dangerously soiled and poisoned. Life is menaced. Air pollution control may mean higher fuel costs and other interim economic burdens; but people are willing to bear them if only they can once again breathe clean air.

—New York Times

Jobs, Not Jails...

Jobs, not jails, may be the "sentence" for petty lawbreakers under an ingenious war on poverty program being tried in Washington, D. C.

Men arrested for marginal offenses will be diverted from the traditional criminal processes of prosecution, arrest and punishment. Instead they will be channeled into a rehabilitative program that will provide vocational training, education, medical care and, finally, jobs and self-sufficiency.

The project is admittedly experimental, but, if it works, it could become a national model. It would free the offender of the stigma of a criminal conviction and spare the Government the expense of trial and incarceration. Most important, it might break the wasteful, dangerous cycle of poverty and criminality.

Study Shows Sharpest Decline In Agriculture Prices In 20 Years

Cong. W. R. (Bob) Poage, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, today released a committee staff study showing that farmers now receive less for the food they produce than 20 years ago and he declared the nation's food supply will be endangered "if we do not restore to agriculture prices which will enable farmers to stay in business."

The study is one of a series published at intervals since the committee began in 1957 a continuing examination of farm to retail price spreads.

While the study published today is based upon statistics and facts of 1966 and prior years, Chairman Poage in a foreword emphasized "the distressing developments in agriculture occurring in the first months of 1967." He listed some of these developments as follows:

Ag Report Offers No Solutions, Says Cong. Bob Price

AUSTIN

Cong. Bob Price (R-Tex.) took exception last week to a recent Presidential Advisory Commission on Agriculture report.

Price, who represents the Panchhandle (18th District), said the recently released report offered no solutions "to help solve the basic problems that have plagued the American farmer for years."

Price is a member of the House Agriculture Committee. He spoke at a weekend workshop session of the Texas Republican Task Force on Agriculture.

"What agriculture really needs today," Price told the group, "are policies that will result in reduction of rising farm indebtedness, curtailment of increasing production expenses, and assurance to the farmer that his productive efforts will be equitably rewarded." Price said the report didn't include "recommendations to accomplish these goals."

"If housewives think the cost of food is high now, they should wait until the grocery's price reflects the added costs farmers would incur under the Commission's recommendations," Price warned.

Price said the need for "constructive and positive alternatives to some of the restrictive and tremendously expensive farm subsidy programs is indicated not only by the low level of farm parity prices but also by an exodus of some 3 million farmers to the cities since 1960."

He said the President's Agriculture Advisory Commission suggests that another 2.5 million farm families should be removed from the countryside.

Price said he agreed with Secretary of Agriculture Freeman who testified during housing hearings recently that "deterioration in rural America feeds blight in the cities." He added that he might not agree with Freeman on the means of accomplishing renewal and redevelopment of rural America but agreed wholeheartedly that it must be done.

Chairman of the Texas Republican Task Force on Agriculture is Jim Campbell, Pampa rancher. Vice chairman is John A. Smith, Cameron farmer-rancher.

1967, agriculture prices suffered their sharpest decline since the late 1920s and early 1930s.

"Prices received by farmers in the marketplaces dropped to the lowest level in 33 years, in relation to the rest of the economy. These prices declined 10 percent between August of 1966 and April of 1967. Although there was some recovery in May and June, the parity ratio dipped in April to 72 percent, the lowest for any month since 1934.

"In other words, the prices received by farmers, in relation to the prices of things they must buy to produce their crops and livestock and to live on the farm, were in April of this year at the lowest point in 33 years."

Meanwhile, during the past 20 years, Poage said, the hourly earnings of industrial workers have increased by 123 percent and corporate dividends are up 232 percent. During the same 20-year span the average of farm prices dropped by 11 percent, comparing 1947 prices with prices in April of 1967. The chairman emphasized that prices received by farmers for wheat, corn and cotton and other farm commodities today are substantially below such prices two decades ago.

"The projected net income of agriculture for 1967 is $15.5 billion, compared to $17.1 billion in 1947," he said. "National income is expected to reach $642 billion in 1967, compared to $199 billion in 1947. Thus while the national income shows an increase of 223 percent, farm income is down 9 percent.

"These conditions cannot continue. Farmers cannot produce the abundance of food and fiber we need without using modern techniques. These techniques are expensive. Our country and our world may soon need increased production. We can't have it unless farmers can at least hope to get enough for what they produce to pay for what they put into its production."

"Our whole food supply will be endangered if we do not restore to agriculture prices which will enable farmers to stay in business and produce abundantly," he declared. "Possibly four great farming corporations might well be able to produce all the food and fiber we need, but they would certainly never do it for anything like the small percent of the consumer's disposable income which between three and four million farmers are now getting."

Poage in his statement recognized that "political power of our farm and ranch people has diminished," and that "henceforward, farmers must depend upon members of Congress and upon administrators representing urban constituencies and populations for approval of farm policies which are fair and equitable."

"The ultimate decisions will be made in the cities," he said. "Therefore, it is important for city people to understand that all of us will suffer if we fail to appreciate the work, the problems and the needs of agriculture."

"We need to pay our farmers enough to make it possible for them to feed and clothe our cities. This is a land of plenty and we want to keep it that way."

Texas Adds 87 New Miles To Interstate System

AUSTIN

Eighty-seven new miles of interstate highways were completed to full freeway standards during the second quarter of 1967, the Texas Highway Department reported today.

On July 1, a total of 1,615 miles was complete to full Interstate standards. This compares with 1,528 miles under rubber on April 1 of this year.

At midyear, three-fourths of the 3,028-mile Interstate network in the State was completed to full Interstate standards, under construction or fully adequate to accommodate present traffic volumes.

Specifically, the status of the Interstate highway system in Texas as on July 1 was:

—Completed to full Interstate standards, 1,615 miles.

—Under construction to full Interstate standards, 378 miles.

—Adequate for present traffic, 217 miles.

—Under construction in stages, 54 miles.

—Construction and right of way acquisition programmed, 168 miles.

—Right of way acquisition only programmed, 597 miles.

When the national 41-thousand-mile Interstate network is finished in the early 1970s, Texas will have more miles of Interstate than any other State.

Even now, more miles of Interstate highways are in service in Texas than any other State — except California — will have on completion of the system.

Interstate mileage near the county area has this status:

IH 35 and 35 E — (Laredo-Gainesville, via Dallas) — Total length, 505 miles; completed to full IH standards, 372 miles; under construction, 52 miles; adequate for present traffic, 19 miles; no stage construction.

IH 35W — (Western leg of IH 35 via Hillsboro-Fort Worth-Denton) Total length, 85 miles; complete to full IH standards, 56 miles; under construction, 20 miles; adequate for present traffic, 8 miles; no stage construction.

Ever get hungry in a boat? Then take along a few hard-boiled eggs. They make a good mid-morning snack. Also, a small can of tomato juice will allay both hunger and thirst.

Slogan and motto of the State of Indiana is "Crossroad of America."

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

—By—

J. D. MOORE

The majority of fires can be traced to human carelessness or neglect. To prevent fire loss people must achieve understanding and the habit of being careful. You can safeguard your farm and home against fire damage by applying fire prevention principles and fire protection methods.

Do not allow trash or oily rags to accumulate in any farm buildings. Remove weeds, grass, and dry vegetation from around buildings and along fence rows. Burn trash regularly at a safe distance from buildings and in a safe place—preferably in a good trash burner. Do not burn on windy days; even on calm days watch the fire until it is completely out. Be sure to remove all dry grass and weeds from around your trash burning area. This may be done by plowing around it or with chemicals.

If you have grass or farm woodlands, post fire-warnings around them. Maintain fire breaks around grass areas by plowing a firelane. Practical fire extinguishers are available through local farm organizations at reasonable prices. Every farm pickup should be equipped with a fire extinguisher. Available plowing machinery will also help.

People are the cause of most fires — "We can't prevent people but we can prevent fires." Publications on the prevention of fires on farms are available at the County Agent's office. "The house you burn may be your own".

WORMS IN PEANUTS

Most peanut farmers are faced with the problem of worms feeding on the foliage and growing tips of peanut plants at this time of year. A&M specialists recommend that producers limit the amount of money spent on low yielding peanuts. They even stated at the Rockdale meeting that worms may eat up to 50 percent of the leaves without reducing yields. The only problem here is to determine if a heavy infestation of worms know when they have eaten up to 50 percent of the foliage.

Since a pound and a half of technical DDT per acre will control the worms and 10 to 15 pounds of sulphur will reduce leaf spot, producers may use 10 to 15 pounds of a 3-10-40 (B.H.C-DDT-Sulphur) per acre as a dust.

Dean Stiles of the Salty Community and W. E. Greenwood, of Rockdale, treated their peanut fields recently with the above recommendation.

A small roll of the new plastic electrical tape is a handy item for the tackle box. It is good for mending broken rods, replacing guides, patching holes and making many other repairs.

NEW LIGHT ON HOMEWORK...

The school year will soon be under way again and young eyes will be working at one of the most important tasks they'll have in a lifetime... studying.

If there are school children in your family, take a good look at the lighting used for home study. Lamps should provide evenly distributed, glare-free, shadow-free light over the work area. The light source should be close to books and papers, but not so close to cause direct or indirect glare.

You can be sure of adequate and good quality study lighting with specially-designed, economically-priced lamps which are available at electric appliance dealers.

Foam-Backed Drapes Featured In Greater Variety Of Patterns

COLLEGE STATION
 Foam backed draperies are being added to nearly every manufacturer's line in the market, says Bonny Lay, Extension home furnishings specialist at Texas A&M University.

The foam backings, first introduced last season, now appear on the fiberglass fabrics, linen and wool. The jacquard weave takes the primary position, but the backing appears on plain weaves, including prints and solids.

The backings will penetrate the retail scene in many variations during the rest of the year, says the specialist. The Home Curtain Company will introduce this fall the first Milium elastomer foam backing for draperies on the market. These Milium insulated draperies will be available in white, egg-shell and pastels.

Burlington House, which introduced the aerocellular acrylic lining, Sheffield 600, last year, will also introduce this fall a crushed foam backing for draperies in the moderate priced range. It will offer complete opacity by removing the "spongy air bubbles" that give the present foam backings a kidskin effect.

There are several advantages to having foam backed draperies. The lining foam helps insulate against heat and cold, possesses some acoustical qualities, protects the fabric from sun fading and gives the drapery body, depth and dimension.

The backing is permanently bonded to the fabric by a machine, but it may be picked loose. Most are guaranteed not to crack or peel under normal wear. If the foam is bonded to a washable drapery fabric, it too is machine washable, but otherwise it should be dry cleaned. Be sure to read the label to determine the correct method of cleaning.
